Jerry is a member of the firm's Health Care group. He represents institutional and individual providers of health care services, including health maintenance organizations and managed care companies, hospitals, nursing homes, and assisted living facilities. He also serves the legal needs of home health care companies, clinics, and physician group practices.

Jerry counsels clients in a broad range of issues unique to the health care industry, including third-party reimbursement problems, licensure matters, certificates of need, patient/institutional relations, structuring of joint ventures, as well as avoidance of fraud and abuse and other regulatory problems. Since hospitals and other health care entities are faced with the same broad range of issues as other complex corporate entities, he also handles various corporate matters on behalf of health care clients. Jerry was previously a Partner at Posternak Blankstein & Lund LLP.
